The Elements of Your Personality

Now, let's dig into the details. Your personality type code is made of up of four letters, and each letter signifies an important part of who you are.

In this section, we'll look at how you scored on each of the four major dimensions of personality type. Each dimension provides a broad description of how you approach things in a fundamental aspect of your life: how you manage your energy, relate to others, process thoughts and feelings, and organize your daily activities.

Introversion vs. Extraversion

This dimension describes how you manage your energy. Your preference for Introversion or Extraversion relates to how readily you express yourself, how easily you warm up to new people, and the extent to which you engage with the world around you. But most fundamentally, this dimension relates to whether you are energized by time alone, or time with other people.

As an Introvert, you are primarily focused inward, on your own thoughts, feelings, and experiences. Most of the time, you find it more energizing to be in quiet, peaceful surroundings than to be surrounded by noise or large groups of people. You tend to be reserved and keep your thoughts to yourself.

Your scores on the six facets of Introversion/Extraversion show the individual traits that make up your energy style.

Sensing vs. Intuition

This dimension describes how you process information. Your preference for Sensing or Intuition indicates whether your style of thinking is straightforward, factual, and concrete, or creative, interpretive, and abstract. Sensors and Intuitives tend to be interested in different kinds of information, with Sensors more interested in facts and details, and Intuitives more interested in ideas.

Your energy style is a blend of Sensing and Intuition, and as such, you are neither a pure Sensor nor a pure Intuitive. Because you do show a slight preference for Intuition, we can classify you as an Intuitive type. However, it's more accurate to say that you are a bit of both Sensor and Intuitive: you tend to use both styles in processing information, and you may switch from one to the other depending on the demands of your environment.

Your scores on the six facets of Sensing/Intuition illuminate your individual style of thinking about the world around you.

Thinking vs. Feeling

This dimension describes your orientation to personal values. Your preference for Thinking or Feeling can be thought of as your preference for "head versus heart" in your decision making. This dimension relates to how you prioritize conflicting values, and whether you tend to feel more comfortable relying on logic and reason, or emotions and personal judgments.

As a Thinker, you are driven by a desire to pursue rational, logical reasoning. You tend to think about things in a detached, unemotional manner, and are most comfortable when you can reason through an issue logically. You are disinterested in personal appeals, preferring your decisions to be objective. You can be competitive with others, and don't mind ruffling a few feathers to achieve your goals.

Perceiving vs. Judging

This dimension of personality describes how you manage your life. Your preference for Perceiving vs. Judging has to do with your orientation toward structure, schedules, deadlines, and organization. It also has to do with how you tend to manage your time and approach the work you have to do.

As a Judger, you prefer to approach your life with a sense of structure and order. You like things planned and scheduled, and dislike unexpected changes. You tend to maintain systems of organization appreciate structured environments. It is important to you to follow through on your promises, and you consider yourself responsible and reliable.
